It requires a two thirds vote to override a veto of the Mayor.

When the budget was taken up Mr. Gordon ex plained the document at some length, art or which objection developed from Mr. I latterfield, of Marshall Ward, when he off ered to amend by transferring shell from Mr. I latterfield, of Marshall Ward, when he off ered to amend by transferring shell placed to the credit of the School Beard, with which to purchase a lot on which a new building may be erected. The gentlem in referred to the crewded condition of the public schools and the lack of from in Richmond for educational purposes. He had that the Board had an option on a suitable lot in the East End, which would e hybre on April 1st.

Mr. Gordon f bilowed Mr. Seay and opposed the amen timent, principally on the ground that it would delay the budget. President Turp in resigned the chair in favor of Mr. Minor that he might favor the transfer of the funds. He was outspecken in his remarks, comparing the $1,00,000 budget to "a sacred elephant," adding the proposety park was simply provided for the purpose of enfancing the value of private property. The park would be a small triflair, too small for a first-class pleasure ground. It was a small tringular lot and was being purchased to remove an eye-sore, "Will you, Mr. Reporter (this addressing a representative of The Tinies-Dispatch), say in the morning that I am for the children of Richmond and their improvement in preference to a few property-holders on Lombardy or Harriskin Street?"

By a vote of twelve to eight the amendment was lost, whereupon Mr. Whitten moved that the $2,500 be used in creeting houses of public comfort. This was laid on the table by motion of Mr. Cottroll.

Mr. Seay followed thy with a motion that the amount be stricken out of the budget. This, too, was tabled, after which the document was passed by a vote of 16 to 1. It is now up to the Mayor.

A lively fight was precipitated upon the action of the Council in extending the contract for the removal of dead animals from the streets for a period of two years. Mr. Washer led a lonely fight in opposition to the measure, while nearly every member of the body favored concurrence. Mr. Washer moved to recount, and after a debate of possibly an hour this was overwhelmingly defaated.

Mr. Minor moved as an amendment that the ordinance be amended so as to close the Speedway on Sunday and prohibit the speeding of horses on this occasion. He presented three memorials from as many ministers, and the Sunday Observance League, protesting against the use of the track on the Sabbath. Mr. Whittet also presented a ministerial memorial, after which the four papers were read.

Dr. Russell Ceell was introduced. He spoke of the matter under consideration and said that no benefit was to be derived by opening the speadway. He said it was against the moral interest of Richmond, and that the ministers were only present to protest against any such action and appeal to the highest motive of the members. He said that there was only a technical difference between trotting and racing, concluding by saying that the ministers and the Board represented practically the same constituency.

Mr. Adams offered the amendment which had just been withdrawn. A vote was taken by acclamation, which showed that the Gordon amendment had been overwhelmingly adopted, after which the ordinance, as amended, was passed.

SALARIES FOR COUNCILMEN.

An ordinance from the Common Coun-cil authorizing the appointment of a joint committee to investigate the advisa-bility of decreasing the number of coun-cilmen and whether any salary should be

Mr. Minor offered a resolution requesting the city attorney to render an opinion as to whether members of the Council can legally serve on the School Board. It was passed, and the opinion will be awaited with interest.

A resolution appropriating 200,000 cubic feet of gas to the Mechanics' institute was passed on motion of Mr. Gunst.

The body adjourned at 12:40 o'clock this morning.

What was unusual about to-day's proceedings, according to the maid, was that Mrs. Pennell had always before told her when they would return. "To-day, however," said the girl, "when they went out it was Mr. Pennell who told me."

The route on their ride no one can tell in detail. Captain Cable and the police were trying to-night to trace the route of the automobile.

Pennell's body was received at the morgue shortly after $:30 o'clock. The features of the dead man were distorted and out of all semblance to their natural character. In the pockets were found some money and newspaper clippings and identification cards from two life insurance companies.

Some of the newspaper clippings were time-worn and stained and had the appearance of having been carried in the case for months. They were interesting, as expressing various emotions, as possible indexes of the character of the man who preserved them. The titles of some of the verses were "Until You Come," "That Which is Lost," "The Fate," "The Unlaid Ghost," "Undistinguished Dead," "A Night in June," "Opportunity."

Tariff Reform and Regulation of the Trusts Will Likely Be the Slogans of the Democrats-Secre-

The Times-Dispatch Bureau,
No. 1417 G Street, N. W.,
Washington, D. C., March 16.

It is learned to-day that the Democrats will probably allow a vote on the Fanama Canal treaty to be reached Saturday, or possibly carlier. But it is now very doubtful whether the Cuban reciprocity treaty will be confirmed at all. It is almost certain that the necessary two-thirds vote for ratification cannot be obtained now. There may be changes in the situation before a vote is taken. But it now looks as though any changes will be rather to increase the strength of the opposition than otherwise. The press reports this morning of a debate in the Cuban Senate in which strong opposition to the treaty was developed will, it is believed, strengthen opposition to the treaty here. The decisration made by Senor Sanquilly that the treaty was not for the benefit of the people of America or Cuba, but that it was solely for the benefit of the trusts, but strengthens the position of those Democrats who take the same view. Had the Democrats of the Senate been convinced that the bill which was defeated in the last hours of the regular session, which proposed a reduction of the tariff on importations from the Fhilliphines, was not primarily in the interest of the sugar trust, it would not have encountered such strong opposition and might have become a law.

A SPONNER BOOM.

It now develops that the national conference proposed by the Governor of Wisconsin to be held at some southern city for the purpose of discussing the negroquestion was only for the purpose of booming Senator Spooner for the presidency. Governor Heyward, of South Carolina, and Governor Mortague of virginia, probably had no idea as to the specific object of the proposed conference when they emphalically declined to appoint delegates, but they doubtless suspected that there was politics in it. The Milwaukee Sentinel, an organ of Senator Spooner's, has practically conference when they emphalically declined to appoint delegates, but they doubtless number to get the southern Stoke

It was never thought he would be nominated, but it was feared he would be a smallest and would the statement of the statemen Sonators. It was never thought he would be nominated, but it was feared he would be a candidate and would thus embarrass the candidacy of available men. Mr. Cleveland's declaration that the control of trusts, and the regulation or reform of the tariff, will be, or should be, the chief features of the Democratic platform, is looked upon as even more significant than his positive announcement that he would not be a candidate for the nomination. For some time leading Democrats at the national capital have been practically unanimous in the opinion that tariff reform should be a foremost feature of the platform next year, but owing to the strong pre-election declarations of the Republicans for the proper regulation of trusts, many thought there would be illile left for the Democrats to do in the way of "trust bustins." But the Congress just adjourned demonstrated very clearly that if there was ever a trust problem for solution, it was just as much a problem after adjournment as it was at the election.

William A. Winder, formerly of the United States army. Captain Winder was a son of General John H. Winder, a distinguished general officer of the Confederacy. Captain Winder was a brother-in-law of Admiral Dewey. Captain Winder served through the war on the Union side, while his father, who was a brigadier in the old army at the outbreak of the war, at once resigned and fought for the South. There is perhaps not another instance of father and son serving in the regular army thus dividing when the South seceded. Captain Winder resigned from the army soon after the war, and has since been engaged in mining operations in California. Death resulted from cancer of the tongue.

TO EXTEND RELIEF.

It is learned to-night from a source close to the Secretary of the Treasury that Secretary Shaw is seriously considering taking steps for the relief of the money stringency, which as yet is more threatened than real, though its coming is beliefed to be assured. Mr. Shaw is keeping in close touch with New York financiers, and those who are familiar with his methods do not doubt that he is planning relief. It is believed that the relief measure will be in the form of increased deposits in national banks, or the purchase of bonds. He has not heretofore approved this method, but bonds have steadily declined recently until they are now at a figure which may be regarded as reasonable.

The Secretary of the Treasury has an are now at a figure which may be regarded as reasonable.

The Secretary of the Treasury has announced that he will pay the Panama Canal Company $4,000,000 cash when the treaty is ratified, and that he will also pay cash Colombia's bonus of $10,000,000. This would yeary greatly deplete the Treasury reserve, which is at present only about $73,000,000. But there is no likelihood the payments to the canal company or Colombia having to be made until well along in the summer. Indeed, it is reported that Colombia will not ratify the canal treaty at all.

It is understood that the financial situation was discussed at the Cabinet meeting this morning, and that it was decided that relief should be extended when Secretary Shaw thought it wise to take such action.

CUT THE NEGRO.

The insolence of a negro porter at the Japanese Legation yesterday afternoon resulted in his being severely cut by Barton Mercer, a young Georgian, who is a cierk in the office of the commander-in-chief of the army.

Mr. Mercer went to the Legation on official business. Gabriel Hunt, a negro porter, very impudently asked him what he wanted. Mercer comes from a part of the country where negroes do not address white men in such fashion, and he made a reply which caused the negro to strike him. Hunt was beating Mr. Morcer when the latter drew his knife and cut the negro so severely that he was unable to appear in Police Court when the case came up to-day. Mr. Mercer was bailed. ### CONCESSIONS MADE TO SENATOR MORGAN washingtron, D. C., March 10.—Sen-ator Morgan to-day secured the first ma-terial concession that has been made to him by the Senate in connection with the Panama Canal treaty with Colombia. This consisted of an agreement to at-tach the Spooner Canal act bodily to the

This change was insate in with a request, which was presented by Senator Lodge, during to-day's executive session of the Senate and after the necessity for it had been discussed by Mr. Morgan and also by other members of the Senate. Senator Daniel expressee the opinion that as the preamble to the treaty calls for the attachment of a copy to preserve the terms of the document intact.

of the act that attachment was necessary to preserve the terms of the document intact.

Senator Morgan contended that without this attachment the treaty was absolutely invalid. Senators Teller and Hoar took opposite view, urging that if the act was in existence and of record in the statutes of the United States, the physical explanation was of no consequence whatever. Senator Lodge, however, suggested that no inquiry could result from the attachment of the act and requested unanimous consent for that purpose. There was no objection, and Senator Morgan's wish in this respect was gratified. It was specifically stipulated, however, that this concession did not amount to an amendment of the treaty. Senator Morgan consumed the entire time of the remainder of the closed session discussing the canal question from various points of view, and going over much ground which he had already covered. Most of his speech was written and when Senator Cullom asked him if the speech he was reading was a new one or an old one he replied with some manifestation of voxation that it was new, adding that he did not have to repeat his addresses. He discussed particularly the attitude of the Isthmian Canal Commission of which Admiral Walker is the head, and criticised to some extent the change of view taken by that commission in its last report. He also dweit upon the variation of the terms of the treaty from those of the Spooner law. During the progress of his address Senator Morgan expressed a desire to have copies of the correspondence between the United States to purchase the canal for forty million dollars, and the Senator Cullom dollars, and the Senator Cullom dollars, and the Senator of State for these documents. They had not arrived at hilf-past three o'clock, and as Senator Morgan stated that he would be unable to proceed without them. Senator Cullom moved that the Senate adjourn, and this motion prevailed.

During the day there was more or loss informal discussion of the proposition to permit Senator Morgan to publish his remarks in the Congressional Record, but there was no effort to reach a conclusion on this point. Benator Cullom, olwirman of the Committoe on Foreign Relations, has taken the position that this permission to print shall not be granted unlers Senator Morgan will agree to allow a day to be fixed for a vote upon the trenty. On the other hand, Senator Morgan says that he is entirely independent of the Benate in this respect because he says he can discuss to to any extent he pleases in the public prints a former treaty between the United States and Colombia, which is almost identical with the pending treaty and which has been made public.

During the day Senator Morgan forwarded to each Senator copies of eight pamphilats prepared by himself on the canal question. They dealt, usually under special titles, with the following subjects: The history of Colombia's Canal concessions and the organization of connal companies; the methods employed to put the old Panama Canal Company into operation in France; Colombia's Canal Knox and the law of the case; the rights of creditors of the Panama Company, and the state of civilization in Colombia. In the second of his paniphilots Senator Morgan contends against the validity of the title of the new Panama Company, and the state of civilization in Colombia. In the second of his paniphilots Senator Morgan contends against the validator to hold and control the property of that company in Panama. Mr. Morgan assetts that the French courts overstopped their jurisdiction in the matter of the transfer of title.

Mr. Morgan accuses these desiring to sell the canal of "riding down the Co.

that the French courts overstopped their jurisdiction in the matter of the transfer of title.

Mr. Morgan accuses these desiring to sell the canni of "riding down the Colombia Constitution," and asserts that $1,000,000 in gold was furnished by the new canni company together with the use of its raffroad and ships to Colombian leaders in order to prolong the canni concession by maintaining the army and continuing the state of war. The trampling of their Constitution under foot in this manner characterizes as a very bitter experience for the people of Colombia. Senator Morgan takes issue with the conclusion of Attorney-General Knox as to the validity of the title the canni can transfer and contends that no cession is valid without an act of cession passed by the Colombian Congress.

In his pamphiet on the state of civilization in Colombia Senator Morgan devotes much space to the influence of the Catholic church in Colombia. He asserts that the Jesuits have created a despectator religious fanaticism in Colombia in its present policies and will control it in future, "so that when we are in desgreement with Colombia we are in conflict with the hely alliances."

THEY ARE RIGHT AFTER SALOONS

Finance Committee Busy Putting Them Into Different Classes.

In accordance with the compromise measure, which was passed last year, fixing a license scale graduated from $100 to $250 for the privilege of conducting a to $250 for the privilege of conducting a saloon in Richmond, the Finance Committee met last Monday night for the purpose of classifying the bars of Richmond into the three grades according to the amount of business done by them. The body was in session until long after midnight, but nothing is known of what transpired in the meeting.

So careful is the committee that no news as to its action get out that it was resolved bot to give a single word out for publication until the work has been thoroughly completed, when a report will be formulated and sent to the Council.

The matter is of untold and yital importance to a large element of the business interests of the city and much speculation is the result of the action of the committee.

From a reliable source it has been becomed that the city will benefit by outst committee.

From a reliable source it has been learned that the city will benefit by quite a few dollars as a result of the classification, and thus it would seem that many important changes are being made in the scale that has beretofore existed. It has also been learned that the committee is doing everything possible to get just as many saloons rated in the second-class as possible. This will strike hard in the First Police District, where heretofore scarcely a bar has paid more than the minimum rate of license tuxation.

mittee is doing everything possible to get lust as many saloons rated in the second-class as possible. This will strike hard in the First Police District, where heretofore scarcely a bar has paid more than the minimum rate of license taxation.

The Al class will not be greatly affected, it is said, and only a few saloons in the center of the town will have to pay the maximum rate.
